

SASCHA HASELMAYER

General Director

Trained as an Architect in London and worked on a range of design & strategy intensive urban projects across Europe, in Latin America and Africa for non-governmental, public and private organization alike. In 1999 he joined Carillion Professional Services UK, developing innovation driven strategic solutions for Kotoka International Airport (British Pounds 40m, Ghana), Thornton Hillhouse Strategic Framework (British Pounds 800m, UK), estate property strategy for the New Economy, strategic solutions for the Co-location industry and BT. Haselmayer applied inward facing strategies to the consultancy's restructuring, alliance building and corporate identity programmes. He has been Architecture and MA Urban Design Unit Master at Greenwich University and lectures at various leading European Universities, incl. Copenhagen Business School, Architectural Association Graduate School and is conducting research on innovation environments and their urban impacts.